PROFILE

An enthusiastic and hard working student currently studying Interaction design (IxD) at the Belfast school of art. Creativity and art have always been the biggest passion of mine since i was young, as I have gotten older I have developed not only a higher level of artistic skill but i have gained alot of character-istics from these abilities such as a keen eye for detail and an understanding of colour and presentation – this comes in handy in the design aspect of my course. In school I took part in a range of extra curricular activities including, rugby, boxing, table tennis, and art and design clubs. I was also chosen by both my teachers and my peers to become head boy in upper sixth.
